

“The education which does not help the common mass of people to equip themselves for the struggle for life, which does not bring out strength of character, a sprit of philanthropy and the courage of lion-it is worth of the name?”

Real education is that which enable one to stand on one's own legs.”

-Swami Vivekanand

Lion Sharad Ruia
CHAIRMAN

Lion Kanahaiyalal G. Saraf
SECRETARY

Dr. N. N. Pandey
PRINCIPAL

Prof. Subhashini Naikar
VICE PRINCIPAL

India is a country that is united in diversified society. The religions, languages, dressings and everything differs and yet, the people of our country are united. Being a country of rich cultural heritage, there are various cultural treasures and traditional practices in every state. The dance, drama, music, writing and languages everything is different amongst different states. However, if observed closely, the people of India respect and follow a little bit of culture and tradition from all parts of India.

We can see the people in our country helping each other and respecting each other's lifestyle and language. When it comes to languages, there is immense diversification, but people have accepted one language as the national language in the form of Hindi.

The most wonderful aspect of our country is its strength. We are united because of what our ancestors have taught us; to live with all kinds of people and embrace them like brothers and sisters. Though we grow in a particular system, we cannot deny that we have friends and neighbours who are from different cultures. Unity in diversity should continue for generations to come and that can be done only by sharing the importance of Unity to students in school. We should be aware of our values and history our country has come through. Elders should take responsibility in transferring the valuable thoughts to kids at home so that the pride of our nation does not fall down for any reason. We should always remember that - “United we stand, Divided We Fall”

-Harsh Malviya
SYBMM

Don't just survive, Live!
Live not to exist, but to feel Alive!
Live.
Live your dreams.

As much as everyone says that it is the time to enjoy your life; it is, in real, time to live through your struggles and live your dreams. It is now the right time to work those extra shifts, and spend the sleepless nights. It is, now, the time to put all that you have into achieving your goals and reaching your dreams. It is now or never!

Live.
Live your emotions.
Feel all that you can, and let your emotions live. Don't carry that fake mask, and don't think about what other's think of you. Be open in expressing what you feel, and be open to accepting what others feel. Do not let the practicality of the world get over your emotional nerve. Life is too short to let go of your emotions in the name of maturity.
Live.
Live yourself.

This is the time when you should witness adventures, create memories and have the time of your life. Struggles will always follow; just don't let your struggles stop you from taking to the path of happiness. Life is a rollercoaster ride, and you will have to celebrate the highs and learn from the lows. Keep going where you want to, and let everything else follow.

Live.
Live your life.

Enjoy Family, Friends and Love. Your job won't pay for your happiness; neither will that designation of yours comfort you. Let not the essence of bonding lose amidst the pressure of work. Party, Celebrate, Explore, and Live.

-Sanchita Jhunjhunwala
TYBMM

Don't DREAM LIFE,
live your dream!

She used to sit alone
And watched everybody laugh!
All she needed was little bit love,
But only ended up playing with fire.

Someone once told me,
'Evilness is a princess that does not need any saving'
But, little did I know
About how it is them who fail to get a happy ending!

She was an angel in disguise,
And yet, a psychotic animal on the inside,
She was unimaginably beautiful,
Cried puddles of tears when stuck,

And yet,
She was his drug;
His one and only ecstasy!

-Drashti Patel
SYBMM

The other half!
When I saw you for the first time, I was hypnotised,
You made me realise that angels do exist,
You made my heart skip a beat

I want to be with you,
And I want to spend my whole life with you,
Come on baby, together, we can fly and aim so high
There is no limit for love, and there are no boundaries for us;

When you are there with me I feel strong and all positive
And in your absence, I turn weak and negative.
You are my precious part,
And no force can tear us apart,
Our hearts beat together,
For we, live for each other!
You, my lady, is the half that makes me complete!

-Abhishek Bala
FYBMS

The very common situation which occurs, goes in this way... A farmer works hard and sends his child to school. The school teaches him that a good education will provide a high status job. The child gains all the experience but lacks opportunities due to unemployment. Now, the child returns to the village without a job.

This story is repeated in almost every poor family. The high status jobs are being crowded upto such an extent that there is lack of employment.

The best solution to the poverty problem would be promoting farming as a real profession. Teaching it in institutes along with proper training and job opportunities. Thus, creating an importance in the farming industry and providing employment.

Foreign countries consider farming like any other occupation thus the development. I hope that in the future, our country does the same by realising the real reason for our underdeveloped country and changing it.

-Stephen Noronha
SYBMM

Unity in diversity is a concept of "unity without uniformity and diversity without fragmentation"

That shifts focus from unity based on a mere tolerance of physical, cultural, linguistic, social, religious, political, ideological and/or psychological differences towards a more complex unity based on an understanding that difference enriches human interactions.

"Unity in diversity" is a popular motto within and among nation states, and also in political and social movements.

Nowadays India is not only known for technology industries but also its variety of people, numerous languages, multiple customs and traditions; different races with different faces and marvellous landscapes. These always project India among other countries like “unity in diversity”.

We join our hands to bring innovations, we join hands to watch to celebrate the achievements of sports persons. Unity in diversity is a very important principle because we all live in a diverse world and it is crucial to respect each other and to support each other no matter what our culture, gender, orientation or other differences may be.

-Sariful shaikh
SYBFM

FATHER

An animal in this jungle of humans,
Protects his siblings from all the evils,
Beautiful he is from within,
But has to be harsh sometimes.

His anger often protects us against the evil,
And, that us what makes him look like a devil;
But, it is he who is the real life angel.
This angel often spreads his hands in the form of wings,

And his good night stories make our dreams spring,
He celebrates with us every small happiness,
But, does not shares his sorrows;
Our sadness however, he always borrows.

Yes, he is a father.
Hard and tough on the exterior,
But sober on the interior;
Yes, he is a Father.

-Abhishek
SYBMM

UNITY IN DIVERSITY

India is a country of various cultures, races, languages and religions. It is a land of unity in diversity where people of different lifestyles and manners live together. They belong to different religions, beliefs and faiths in God. In spite of all these diversities, they live together with the bond of humanity and brotherhood. Generally, people in India are following the traditional Indian culture of being tolerant and absorbing which make them assimilating in nature. Unity in diversity in almost all aspects of the society has become source of strength and wealth all through the country. People of all religions do worship in different ways by following their own rituals and beliefs which represents the existence of underlying uniformity. Unity in diversity promotes spirit of harmony and brotherhood among people beyond their considerations of various diversities.

India is famous for its rich cultural heritage. People belong to various cultures giving rise to the various lifestyles on the basis of their interest and belief. It again gives rise to the growth in various professional areas like music, fine arts, drama, dance (classical, folk), theatre sculpture, etc. Spiritual tradition of the people makes them more pious to each other. All the Indian scriptures are great sources of spiritual wisdom to the people. There are rishis, yogis, priests, father, etc.

In almost all the religions following their own spiritual traditions according to their religious scriptures. Hindi is the mother language in India. However many other dialects and languages are spoken by the people of different religions and regions (such as English, Urdu, Sanskrit, Bhojpuri, Bihari, Punjabi, Marathi, Bengali, Urdu, Gujarati, Kashmiri, etc.); however everyone feels proud to be the citizen of great India. India is especially known for its unity amidst various diversities India attracts Tourists from all across the globe. As Indians, we all should understand our responsibility and try to retain its unique feature at any cost because only then we can achieve real progress.

-Yash Nemani
FYBMM

Photography tips for Beginners

Photography is something I've always enjoyed. I always took tons of pictures growing up, and I love capturing fun moments we had as a family.

Indoor Natural Light Photography Tips

I love natural lighting. I feel that it really creates such a natural, beautiful tone. When you are outside, it can be easier than indoors (so long as you are shooting during the right hours!) This post really goes into a lot of details about the art of indoor natural light photography, so I recommend checking it out.

Photography Prop Ideas & Tips

Tour of DSLR & Photography Terminology

The Art of Lighting

Lighting is the key to any photography – whether you are using artificial lighting or natural lighting, it really can make or

Basics of Shooting in Manual

Ah...manual! The thought of it scares many people away, but honestly, I don't think it's that difficult once you get the hang of it.

There are a few terms you need to know for shooting in manual:

Aperture – this is sometimes referred to as the f/stop number. Aperture controls the amount of exposure in the camera. It also affects the depth of field, or, in plainer terms, how blurry the background is. The lower the aperture, the more blurry and creamy the background will be. There is a mode on DSLR cameras that allows you to adjust the aperture manually, but the camera adjusts the other settings to work with your f/stop. This can be a good place to start. Shutter Speed – this refers to the amount of time the film or digital sensor in a camera is exposed to light. ISO – this affects the amount of light let into a camera. If I have good natural light, I keep this as low as possible. If you crank it up really high, it can make your pictures less crisp and grainier. However, in low light situations, it can really help!

To get started with shooting in manual, I recommend looking at what the settings are in an auto shooting session. When you look at your camera, it should show what the aperture setting is, what the shutter speed is, and what the ISO is. After looking at that, you can try and mimic similar settings in manual.

-Prathamesh Shinde.
FYBMM.

Editorial committee staff.

Principal:

Vice Principal:

B.Sc IT Co-ordinator:

BAF & BIM Co-ordinator:

BBI & BFM Co-ordinator:

BMM Co-ordinator:

BMS Co-ordinator:

Core Faculty:

Core Faculty:

-Dr. N. N Pandey

-Prof. Subhashini Naikar

-Prof. Rupali Mishra

-Prof. Sailee Shringarpure

-C. A. Durgesh Kenkre

-Prof. Bhavana Singh

-Prof. Saraswathy Kumar

-Dr. Sudipta Roy

Chowdhury

-Prof. Ameeta Rawool

Students.

Khush Mashru

Sanchita Jhunhunwala

Saba Shaikh

Neeraj Pal

Pranay Das

Vedant Pandya

-TYBMM

-TYBMM

-SYBMM

-SYBSc.IT

-FYBSc.IT

-FYBSc.IT

